This is an anniversary of peace, a peace that we hope will be lasting. To the end that it may be made a lasting peace, and that we may keep alive the aims and ideals that actuated the United States of America to take up arms for the preservation of the life, liberty and happiness of the nation and of the freedom-loving peoples of the world, I hereby proclaim next Friday, November 11, a holiday in the City of Richmond, and urge upon the people of the city proper and patriotic observance of the day.

MATTIE A. CHANDLER, Mayor of the city of Richmond.

EXPERT RILED BY ANSWER TO FARE ADVICE

Mis-Statements Of Fact Laid To Key's Answer To Rate Proposal

The statement made public by A. J. Lundberg, president of the Key System Transit company yesterday was assailed by A. G. Mott, chief engineer for the California Railroad commission as "unfair."

Mott stated that misstatements of fact appeared in the attack against the proposed East Bay 5-cent street car fare, which Lundberg said was not really a 5-cent fare proposal.

ANSWERS LUNDBERG

"Mr. Lundberg states that it is a misstatement to call the plan a suggested 5-cent fare.

"The truth is that it is a basic 5-cent rate, whereas the company's proposal is in fact a basic 10-cent rate.

"The plan I recommended provided for a weekly pass at one dollar which, according to the best information I can discover, could result in an average fare of less than 5 cents per ride for 18 per cent of the street car users.

"The plan would result in a reduction in cash fares from 7 to 5 cents for 70 per cent of the present street car riders. For only 12 per cent of the present street car riders my plan would mean an increase of from 7 to 10 cents in cash fares."

Mott declared that his proposal is by no means nearly identical with the plan proposed by the Key System Company. He denied that he has recommended the adoption of zone fares, and says that he has only considered such a proposal.

The company's plan, Mott declared, provides for a basic 10-cent fare and a one dollar weekly pass system which, it is estimated, would provide but 30 per cent of the present street car riders with a fare of less than 7 cents.

At least 40 per cent, and probably more of the present street car riders, Mott declared, would be forced to pay a fare of 10 cents if the plan proposed by the Key System is adopted.

5-CENT FARE MISNOMER

Under the Key System proposal, Mott added, no one would enjoy a 5-cent fare.

Mott's proposed basic 5-cent fare for the Key System Company was the sensation of a Railroad Commission hearing in the Oakland City Hall on November 2.

In his recommendation, Mott suggested the adoption of a basic 5-cent fare, co-operative experiments between the Key System, (Continued on Page 5)

Fraud Charge Jails Dundee And Manager After Fiasco

City Wide Hunt For 2 Fails; Police Stage Arrest From Train

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—Joe Dundee, welterweight champion of the world and Manager Mac Waxman for whom a city wide search had been conducted today were taken into custody tonight at Pasadena.

The pair were taken from the Santa Fe crack flyer chief as they were bound for Chicago and other eastern points to evade arrest here following their refusal to meet Ace Huddins Thursday night at Wrigley Field.

Detectives working for the Better Business Bureau received the tip that Dundee and Waxman were headed east and arrived at the local Santa Fe station shortly after the train had left. They then went to Pasadena in a police car and met the train there.

At the jail Dundee and Waxman were booked and finger printed. The charge was false advertising. On a warrant sworn to by Ferris R. Miller, manager of the Better Business Bureau, bail was set at $1000.

Dick Donald who promoted the show was located tonight attending the boxing exhibitions at the Hollywood arena and was surprised to learn there was a warrant out for him. He declared he would surrender tomorrow morning.

The body was shipped to Indianapolis, the home of Captain Shirley's daughter, Miss Patricia Bell Shirley. Interment will be in that city.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS ARE FELT HERE

It was reported by R. J. Lavery meteorologist of the Standard Oil company here.

The quake is estimated to have included Martinez. At Santa Maria, windows in a bank building were broken and bricks knocked from chimneys. It was said that the quake was as strong as the disastrous tremor that wrecked Santa Barbara in 1925.

WOMAN FACES TRIAL MONDAY

Mary Johnson, colored, charged with grand theft in a complaint sworn to by Emil Barbano, will be given a preliminary hearing before Police Judge C. A. Odell, Monday morning.

According to Barbano, the woman, accused him last Saturday night at Twenty-third street and Esplanade avenue, slipped her hand into his inside coat pocket and extracted a billfold containing $650. In the struggle which followed she is said to have tossed the wallet over a fence. The wallet was later recovered when an officer was summoned and the woman arrested.

The charge of grand theft contained in the 1927 revisions to the State penal code includes the former charges of grand larceny, stealing and embezzlement, the shades of difference among which formed loopholes for the escape of offenders. By including all under one head, the state feels that legal technicalities will be minimized.

FIRST GUSHER SPOUTS 1500 BARRELS DAILY

40 Percent of Wells To Be Located In Ocean Near Ventura

Predicting the reported strides taken by the Doheny oil interests, the announcement was made yesterday that the Pan-American oil company has successfully opened a new field in the Ventura district. It is conceded that the high rate of production shown by the wells which have come in will no doubt increase the amount of shipments made to Richmond where the Petroleum Securities company, a Doheny concern, will locate a distributing plant.

GUSHERS TAPPED

E. L. Doheny, Sr., and E. L. Doheny, Jr., made a tour of the new field where the first well is flowing 1500 barrels a day and will reach 2000. Drilling has progressed only 3220 feet at present, not yet clearing sandy formations.

WELLS IN OCEAN

The field when developed, in the experts opinion, will nearly equal in production the celebrated Ventura avenue oil property.

Development of the oil lands will necessitate a unique handling as 40 per cent of the wells will be located in the Pacific ocean. No. 1 is on the high tide line. Breakwaters will be erected and other structures built to allow the oil men to tap the ocean's bed.

Relief Map Will Be Constructed By Sea Scouts

SOVIET UNION CONDEMNED

America and England will have nothing to do with the soviet unions. Within the last few days Russian communism has suffered the worst setback from the international point of view, in the entire history of the red movement. For the British Trade Union Congress has voted by 2,551,000 to 622,000 to sever all relations with the All-Russian Council of Trade Unions.

The British trade union movement is the strongest in the world and has tried to maintain relations with the Russian workers. Now, however, it is said, the British workers and their leaders are convinced that the Russian trade union is only another name for the communist red international, for which they have no use whatever.

The final break came when Moscow leaders attempted attacking British labor leaders, to lay down the law as to the policy of the British unions. Said Walter Citrine, secretary of the congress: "Two years of patient striving to bring about an understanding between the British and Russian movements have now convinced the general council that it is impossible to go on under present conditions. The Russian idea is that the labor movement is played on the Moscow stage and that all other labor organizations are merely spectators in the auditorium."

So British labor and American labor today occupy common ground with reference to the soviet unions. The fact may impress the major and the picayune parlor propagandists of Russian communism in America, though that is to be doubted. What would impress them would be swift and inexorable deportation to the land of their nightmarish dreams.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Many complaints have been made to the New York police lately that gangs of young men are lurking in the subways and snatching the hats off the heads of passengers through car windows. Maybe these young fellows are just training themselves for jobs as hat checkers in the up-town hotels and restaurants.

The French reds in placing rocks on the track and bombs under the rails in an effort to kill members of the American Legion, and then sneaking away, again proved the fact that a red is a red no matter what country you find him in.

It is said that democrats and republicans in congress will disagree on the kind of tax reduction law which will be passed. It's our opinion that the only popular tax law will be the one which wipes 'em out entirely.

A Bohemian inventor has perfected a metal which looks like gold and will last as long. But will it buy as much?

Vigorous Health

Folks are beginning to talk Christmas. To talk about earning money for Christmas and saving money by making gifts for Christmas. Here is a suggestion that comes from sunny California and can be carried out no matter where you live. I am sure. A woman writes that she has for several years made fruit cakes and plum puddings for holiday trade. Holiday trade in New England certainly would include Thanksgiving, so it isn't too early to think about fruit cake for Thanksgiving, which is just four weeks away. Mrs. W. makes the cakes and puddings on order and does them up attractively in wax and fancy paper and ties them up with a ribbon, and there you are. Of course, the first year she attempted it she had to tell her friends and neighbors how good her products were, but since then the cakes and puddings have been her best advertisement, and she has an exceptionally good holiday trade.

I would like to know if you think it is a good idea to solicit orders for personal Christmas cards? Some of my friends have tried it and have done well. I have so few friends in town that I don't know whether it would be worth while trying it or not. MISS W. J. S.

I really don't think that you should plan on depending on your friends entirely for the sale of the cards, but I can't see why you haven't the same opportunity to make a success in the sale of them as your friends who have tried have had. You will have to learn to seek out strangers, in their homes mostly. I should think, and sell them the cards, and a good saleswoman can get into a few orders in a few short hours. Yes, I think if you have the notion that you would like to try it that it would be a good idea.

I am going to try my hand at making money at home and have been making chili sauce for several weeks past. I have put it in jars and a friend of mine is to sell it at her stand on the boulevard. Will I need a license? Does it come under the pure food law? What prices should I get for it? E. A. F.

Good for you. I can almost smell the chili sauce and know that it must be splendid. As for needing a license you won't need one for selling, as the product is to be sold on your friend's stand. If you inquire from your health department, I am sure that they can tell you pure food law that governs your district. As for price, of course it is home-made, so you can charge just a little bit more than the wholesale manufactured product sells for.

I am very handy with the needle and can make beautiful bed lampshades, also floor lampshades, but somehow I do not know where to sell them or to start a business with them. I live on the third floor. I am also a good pastry cook. Can you give me some advice? L. F. Westville, Conn.

With two different things to fall back on it seems to me that I would try my hand at one of them and see what I could do to earn money. I would suggest that you first determine whether there is more opportunity in your neighborhood for the sale of the lampshades or whether there is not a market for fancy cakes and pies. How about canvassing the neighborhood for orders for good things to eat and see what results you have?

What Your FACE TELLS

©c. 1927- by Betty Morrison PSYD.

THE LONG, LEAN, PHILOSOPHICAL HAND

We all have known and loved hands like this, but no one seems to want them for their own—the philosophical hand, lean, lank, knotty.

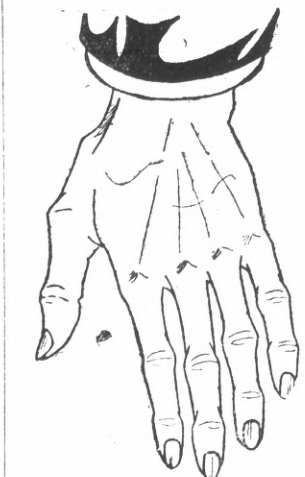

This is the hand of a person ruled by reason. The emotions seldom sway this type mind. Interested in the world of thought and ideas, he possesses the ability to look far below the surface of things. Honesty is one of his many excellent traits.

The universe would have difficulty existing without this man, who can take concrete facts in front of him and from them deduce principles.

This type individual possesses deep affection, but it is always of unobtrusive kind. For this reason he is often misunderstood; he is frequently considered unfeeling.

He is not the ideal mate for a woman who is of a warm, demonstrative nature, and who loves to be adored and petted. He is suited for the ministry, teaching the law and for the life of a poet or writer.

YOUR MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and addresses should be added to letters as a mark of good faith but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers should enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department, about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

In all affairs of the heart, love should be the guide. Money may buy certain comforts and luxury—but there is no price tag on love and happiness. Some one has said: "The man or woman who marries for money usually earns it." And there's more truth than poetry in this statement! Says the WOMAN

I have a problem to solve which I feel sure will tax your ingenuity. But I hope you will say exactly what you think. I am a widow with two children, one 6 and the other 4. My husband has been dead two years, and it has been a hard struggle to keep things going. Through my business connections, I have met two gentlemen—one a fine, hardworking man with practically no money; the other the head of a department of a large concern and quite comfortably situated. I like the poor man better, but the comforts the other man offers appeal to me greatly. What would you do—ELAINE T.

It is never advisable to marry principally for money. If you read the newspapers, certainly you see the number of cases that are in the court because of the very thing. Marrying for money means simply that one's longing for a few luxuries is satisfied. It is no guarantee of happiness. How often this has been said in a thousand different ways, and yet women never seem to learn! After the first few months of the honeymoon the emptiness of it all begins to pall, and that is the first step toward unhappiness. Follow the dictates of your heart and you will be happy.

Young love is impetuous and headstrong, and is sometimes blind to the practical side of life. Often its very intensity leads a young couple to make a mistake which would have been avoided had they been older and more experienced.

Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

The San Francisco novel is covered by Buckwell, San Francisco boss. Old Vasquez won't sell. Buckwell and his lawyer, Brandon, plan to void the Vasquez land grant. Brandon's nephew, Terry, loves Dolores, Vasquez's beautiful granddaughter, and warns Vasquez of plot. Vasquez spurns warning and informs Terry that Dolores must marry young Spaniard. Terry, heartbroken, goes on spree. Dolores seeks Terry in Frisco's Barbary Coast and is disillusioned in him. Buckwell meets Dolores and is intrigued. He lures her to Frisco under guise of aiding Terry finds them and saves Dolores from Buckwell's unrelenting attention.

CHAPTER X—Continued

Terry's fighting Irish blood was aroused and he backed Buckwell into a corner with a volley of rights and lefts. Buckwell was slower, but many pounds heavier and every blow that he gave carried his full weight behind it.

Dolores stepped aside and watched breathlessly, in an agony of fear, lest Terry be hurt. Terry's anger was too much aroused. He wanted to avenge Buckwell's insult to Dolores without further delay. With a quick upper cut he crossed a right to Buckwell's chin and sent the Bear of the Tenderloin careening back over the divan where he sprawled, half stunned. Terry stood over him menacingly.

"You will regret this insult," he exclaimed. "Do you think you could like me well enough to be engaged—to me—right now?"

His eyes sought Dolores.

"Yes," she laughed so softly that if he had been another inch farther away he could not have heard. She laughed because being engaged was something entirely strange and she had no idea what else was expected of her.

It was a new experience for Terry, too, but he had no hesitancy or doubts about what came next.

"Dolores—Dolores—I love you!" and his lips touched hers in the sweetest, most precious kiss that either of them was ever to know.

"Darling—sweetheart! You've given me a new lease on life, and we are going to fight Buckwell and he doesn't get your ranch—Did you want anything around you—here it is, I have it," he continued excitedly. "Come on and let's see what we can do to beat Buckwell at his own game."

When the waiter arrived with tea the room was empty.

CHAPTER XI

The Hacienda in Danger

Chris Buckwell's boast that he never wasted time was not an idle one. The Tenderloin could have guaranteed that. Before the afternoon was over he had commissioned engineers to have the Vasquez property surveyed. He also started negotiations that would prove the old Spanish land grants to be invalid. Since Dolores spurned his advances he was more determined than ever to possess the ranch. Her lure for him had vanished. Love might move with languid steps, but hate struck with a spider's speed. He took malicious delight in arranging for her and her grandfather to be ousted by night. This accomplished to his satisfaction, he retired to his private quarters and set about repairing the havoc Terry had worked in his appearance. While he was again applying this veneer of a gentleman San Toy—the faithful little slave and very excellent spy—lurked about making herself useful while she related current gossip of the underworld. It was another enjoyable system that Buckwell employed to prevent losing time.

Two hours later a surveying crew walked boldly into the Vasquez grounds, planted their transit above the private burial plot and ran a line directly toward the mission. Buckwell's orders were being carried out.

Terry and Dolores had returned from the Crystal Palace a short while before and were going through a packet of papers in the hope of finding something helpful.

"When Grandfather wakes from his nap he may know where there are others—but I think this is all we have," Dolores watched Terry worshipfully.

"The important ones seem to be missing," he mused, sorting over the documents. "I wish we had been able to locate my Uncle before leaving town. I am sure he will transfer his efforts to your interest when he knows what Buckwell tried to do."

"Isn't there anything we can do until tomorrow?" asked Dolores.

"I wish I could think of something, sweetheart, but I can't."

"It's good to see some life around here!" greeted Don Luis cheerfully. Then he caught sight of Terry and stopped. "Pardon me. I did not know you had a guest."

"This is Mr. O'Shaughnessy, from San Francisco," supplied Dolores. "And, Terry," she continued, turning toward him, "I want you to know Don Luis, my childhood friend, who presents me with toads and worms and bugs whenever I have a birthday." Dolores laughed merrily.

Rising, Terry extended his hand. He meant it when he said, "I am more than glad to know you."

Don Luis quickly withdrew his hand and twirled his moustache. His eyes glared jealously. "I came to spend the afternoon with you"—the remark was directed to Dolores alone—"but was informed that you had gone into town and that your Grandfather was resting. I have been entertaining myself as best I could in the library."

He was a bit petulant in his annoyance at having been so surprisingly neglected.

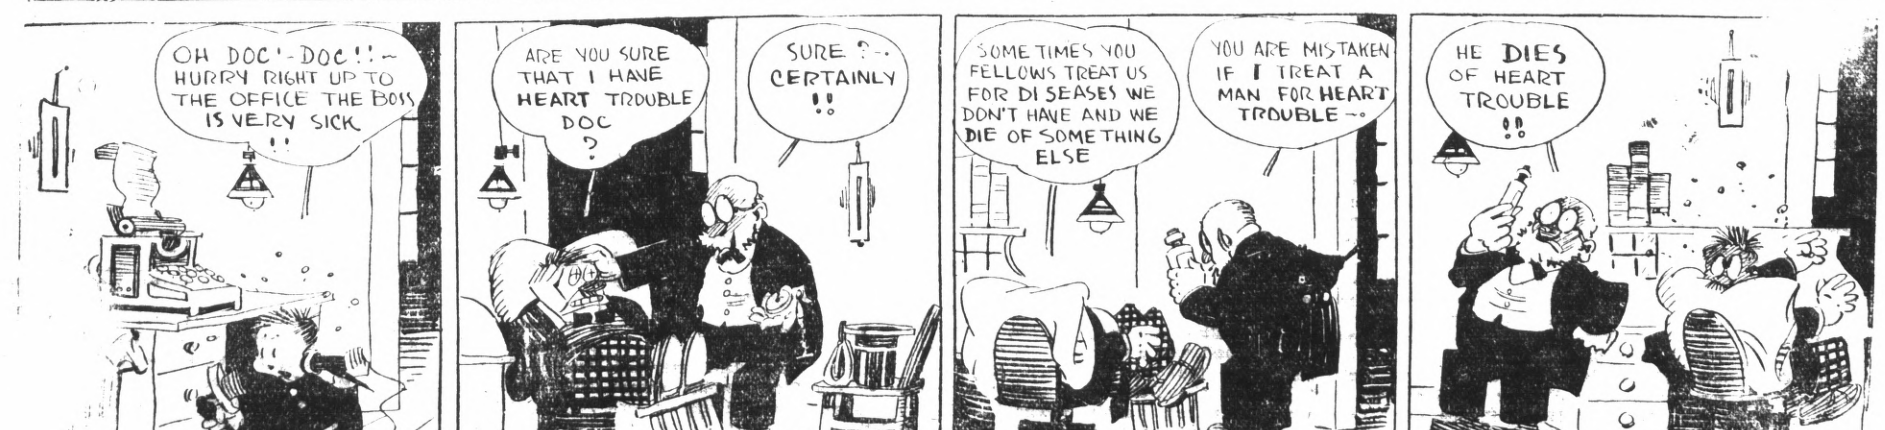

"I am sorry if you have been lonely," said Dolores.

Terry found himself wishing she had not spoken in such a regretful tone. Although he was confident of Dolores's love, it rankled a little to know that the Spaniard had shared her close friendship since childhood.

Don Luis was exceedingly annoyed. Dolores was his—as far as he was concerned—and he resented having a totally strange and apparently eligible, and perhaps interesting, stranger make himself so at home in her presence. He poured out a glass of wine and taking it to a chair a little remote from the table proceeded to sip it meditatively.

"Ah! Sure and I'm happy now!"

FAIR SEX LIKE WESTERN FILM AT RICHMOND

As a rule, western films appeal more strongly to the men of an audience than to the fair sex. In "The Desert's Toll," however, the Metro Goldwyn-Mayer production, starring Francis McDonald which is now attracting large crowds to the Richmond Theatre, the ladies are apt to do an "about face" and applaud the western production, principally because of the grace and charm of one Francis McDonald.

This young man, just recently elevated to stardom, possesses a personality that is well nigh irresistible, has a smile which would cause any damsel to seriously consider ranching as an occupation, and seemingly exhibits all other qualifications of a most attractive type of "he-man" so liable to be associated with a dweller of the great open spaces.

In other words, if Eleanor Glyn should spend an evening upon "The Desert's Toll," no doubt by telegraph next morning to all the newspapers of the world, would go forth a message adding one more name to her "blue-book" list of those chosen few whom she admits possesses "It."

And how this McDonald person can manipulate a horse. Riding had been one of the principal accomplishments, of course, of western screen heroes for years, but Francis McDonald is without doubt one of the most devastating and thrilling horsemen we have ever watched. He "goes places" which are not intended for bridle trails, etc.

All in all, you may have gathered by this time that this reviewer has seen the production. Other film features include the first chapter of "The Golden Stallion," starring Lefty Flynn, with White Fury, King of Horses, and a Felix the Cat cartoon comedy.

STORY OF OLD MONTEREY NOW AT CALIFORNIA

Monterey, California, a civilized community years before the Revolutionary War, the site of California's first capital and one of the most impressive combinations of land, sea and trees in the Americans, furnishes the background for the action in "Rose of the Golden West," George Fitzmaurice's latest production for First National Pictures, now at the California Theatre.

Founded in 1770 by Father Serra when he built there the second of California's 21 missions, Monterey was California's first real city and was a more important community than San Francisco up to the time gold was found on the Sacramento River. From that time Monterey faded and San Francisco became a glaring yellow light on the Pacific Coast.

It was in Monterey in 1846 that Commodore Sloat landed men from an American warship anchored in the bay with the aid of Thomas Larkin, American consul, took possession of the capital.

It was there that Robert Louis Stevenson lived and wrote. Monterey claims California's first brick house, its first customs house, its first theatre and first whaling station.

The story of "Rose of the Golden West" is built around the stirring historical events of 1846, and much of it was filmed on the very spots where the history making action took place. The featured members of the cast of the story include Mary Astor, Gilbert Roland, Montague Love, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Flora Finch and others.

Other features include another story of "The Collegians," featuring George Lewis; "Felix the Cat Cartoon Comedy"; International News and Larry Canelo at the organ.

Faith Kept With Richmond Declares Key System Head

That the Key System Transit Company is keeping faith with the City of Richmond was pointed out by Paul Goldsmith, vice president of the transit company, when he made public today a statement of the Key System, relative to the modification of the transit company's rate structure now under consideration by the California Railroad Commission. Goldsmith called attention to the fact that at the final hearing on last Wednesday that the Key System filed an amendment to the rate schedule heretofore submitted to the Railroad Commission.

WANT TO KEEP FAITH
"The amendment offered by the Key System," Goldsmith said, is evidence of our desire to keep faith with the City of Richmond. Our company recently told you city officials that it would request permission of the Railroad Commission to abolish the third zone now in effect on the Richmond line. That amendment has been filed."

The zone plan as proposed by A. G. Mott, chief engineer of the Railroad Commission, on the last day of the rate hearing would abolish four zones between Richmond and Oakland. The Mott proposal adds another zone between the Alameda County line and the City of Oakland.

According to the Lundberg statement, the transit company has submitted a tariff calling for a transferable weekly pass costing $1.00 good for any number of rides over the Traction Division. Coupled with this weekly pass is a 10c fare for the casual rider.

ZONING SUGGESTED
"The engineer for the Railroad Commission," the Lundberg statement says, has suggested a zone system. The initial fare in any zone was to be 5c with an additional 5c whenever a zone boundary was passed.

"The company believes in a blanket fare for an urban community such as the East Bay district. These cities have been built up under such a rate fare. It is a misnomer to call the suggestion of the Railroad Commission's engineer a 5c fare. The suggestion is really a 10c fare for 48 pct. of the riders and a 5c fare for the remainder."

EXPERT RILED BY ANSWER TO FARE ADVICE

the Railroad Commission and the public for increasing street car travel during non-peak hours and economies in operation, including the establishment of fare collectors on the ground and the extension of the one-man car service.

CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT
Horizontal fare increases, Mott declared, provide no solution for transportation problems of the East Bay.

Mott also indicated that he will recommend the reduction of the present 21-cent transbay ferry fares of the Southern Pacific and the Key System Company.

The Railroad Commission has taken the Key System rate hearing case under advisement for 60 days. It is expected that at that time the commission will conclude a rate hearing which has continued for the past two years, and which has resulted in a temporary increase of street car fares of from 6 cents to 7 cents and a transbay ferry fare increase of from 18 to 21 cents.

The statement to which Mott took exception can be found in another column on this page.

Safeguarding Valuables

All the skill of the person that is clever in devising ways to hide things avails little against the danger of fire and the operations of thieves. Fire and burglary hold no terrors for those that keep their personal treasures in an American Trust Company safe deposit vault. The expense is very small. A good-sized box may be rented for as little as three dollars a year. We would appreciate the opportunity of showing you the facilities we have provided for you in our new and modern vaults.

ALL-RICHMOND CANCEL GAME WITH ASHBY 11

Owing to the inability of the All-Richmond football squad to secure their new suits before next Monday, the game between that team and the Ashby Athletic Club of Berkeley, scheduled for Sunday morning on the Nichol park field has been postponed, according to John Walker, manager.

The members of the team continue to turn out for practice, of which they are badly in need owing to the newness of the organization.

A stiff game has been scheduled for the All-Richmonds for Armistice Day when they will meet the crack Chinese team of Oakland. This aggregation of players has beaten several fast teams from San Francisco and a victory over them is classed highly.

Preparations for the benefit dance to be given to buy suits for the All-Richmonds are being completed. The dance will be held at East Shore park on Saturday night, November 19 and the public is invited to attend thereby showing that they back the local organization in its efforts for a championship season. Tickets can be secured from any member of the team.

Cardinal Grid Team To Meet Huskies Today On Wet Field

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 5.—"Tricky" Dick Hyland at left half and Ted "Spud" Harder at right end worked out with the first string Stanford football machine in the rain at Seattle this afternoon, and will start tomorrow again the University of Washington.

This meeting of somewhat under-rated but admittedly powerful teams as yet unbeaten in conference competition is regarded everywhere as the most crucial battle to be staged in the north this season.

It is heralded in this section as "the big game" and in Coach Knack Bagshaw's Huskies are making what they believe to be their greatest bid for a 1927 championship. Unbeaten and untied, the Huskies are positive that if they get by Stanford they can care for themselves against the rest of the conference, and they are entering.

Though Stanford followers earlier in the week, were willing to place ten red derbies along side of seven or eight of Purple and Gold, the rain of yesterday and today has reduced the friendly wagers, what there are of them, to a practically even basis and there is much expert opinion, in this city, that backs the possibility of a Washington edge should the game be played on a wet field.

As this is being written the rain still pours down, though the weather man, the almanac, and the oldest inhabitant's rheumatism have it that tomorrow will be cooler, cloudy, and uncertain, but without actual precipitation. May they be right.

As far as wet fields go, that at the Seattle stadium is probably as good as any on which to play. If the game must be played on a wet field, the stadium gridiron has been improved since the Stanford visit of two seasons back. More sand has been added to the surface composition, and a certain firmness seems to be maintained in spite of the film of water which covered everything this afternoon.

VIERRA WINS DECISION OVER MIKE SIEGAL

Benny Vierra of Oakland won a decision over Mike Siegal of Oakland last night in their eight-round bout on Joseph Rossi's card in the El Cerrito Athletic Club. There were many bouts which ended in decisions not favored by the spectators but here was one that no one could complain against. Vierra had Mike outpointed throughout the bout.

The dusters had it that Siegal would easily win this match, but Vierra showed that he had not lost his old-time stuff and completely outclassed Siegal.

Frankie Stinson of San Francisco knocked out Mickey Brown of Richmond in the fourth round. The bout originally scheduled for six rounds was reduced to four and in the fourth Frankie did his work. Mickey was not in condition and did not look his usual best.

In the four-round special event, Young Pancho Villa of Oakland won a decision over Mickey Britton of Berkeley. Villa is a classy flyweight and manages to win his bouts.

Joe Lavigne of Oakland knocked out Odis Kelley of Honolulu in the first round of their scheduled four round go. Kelley who claims victories in mid-Pacific bouts failed to show up before Lavigne.

Frank Bayatto of Berkeley was knocked out by Wayne Petteway of Oakland in the second round of their four-round schedule. Billy Limer of Oakland won a decision over Lawrence Guffre of El Cerrito in the four-round curtain raiser. Eddie White refereed in place of Benny Wagner.

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

A LOU DAVIS GOLF YARN

Lou Davis the well-dressed Oak Ridge golfer, was whiling away the time in Johnny Dundee's dressing room, before the Canzoneri fight, telling John stories of this and that.

Hugie Fullerton once held the All-American title for funny yarns, but when Davis, by actual count, kept poker-faced Tex Rickard chortling for 45 minutes at Saratoga Springs, the committee took the title from Hugie and gave it to Lou.

"There were two little Jewish golfers," Davis told Dundee. "One we'll call H. Lahiff Horowitz, and the other we'll call W. Duffy Ginsberg."

"Horowitz had joined a golf club, and he told his pal, Ginsberg, about it: 'It's positively toff, by that professor Haven it's a 76 with lucky pots on the gins'."

"He finally persuaded Ginsberg to play with him one Sunday. 'Don't haxpact a low score; belief me it's a varry, varry toff course,' he counseled on the way to the club."

"The first tee was crowded when they started. 'By me you're the past, Ginsberg,' Horowitz explained. 'Hit the ball first.' 'It's hokay, Ginsberg,' his pal assured him. 'It is nothing. The audience hopsat you.'"

Thus consoled, Ginsberg swung again and missed by a foot. "Too steef you are!" Horowitz advised. "Be looser wld the club. Kipp your fitt wider apart. But Ginsberg was not to be consoled. 'I can't henderstand what iss,' he moaned. 'Never did I miss two swibes at the ball lak this.'"

"He tried again, and tore up a foot of turf, but the ball didn't move an inch. 'Turning to Horowitz, he said: 'My fraud, you tole me correct. Never half I played such a toff golf course!'"

WORE THE SEAT OUT OF HIS ROBE

Scotty Monteith, the first manager of Dundee, was one of those who called on Johnnie as the little Scotch Wop sat in his dressing room.

It was because of the fact that Dundee became known as the Scotch Wop. Monteith named him Dundee, too. "Bonnie Dundee" is a favorite song with Scotty, so he called Giuseppe Carriarra Johnny Dundee, which was as close as could get to the title of the Scotch song.

"How do you feel, John?" asked Monteith, shaking hands with the little star. "Fine, Scotty," said Dundee.

"If you win, John," promised Monteith, "I'll buy you a new dressing gown."

Dundee laughed and looked down at the brown and white robe that covered him.

"You haven't forgotten, have you? Remember the day you bought this one for me? That was almost eighteen years ago. I thought that I had finally arrived when I got one of these to wear in the ring. It seems such a long time ago."

Dundee has always worn that robe which Monteith got him. Through all of Dundee's 366 fights that brown and white dressing gown has gone into the ring with him.

Ask Dundee where the robe is, he once boasted and he'll explain: "The seat wore out of it, so my wife took the packets off and patched it up in back."

Gentlemen,

I suffered from Leakage of the Heart, Enlargement, Pain and High Blood Pressure. The p-2-p extended to my back and left arm. I tried many local physicians, but found no relief at all.

After I had seen your advertisement about overcoming Heart Trouble I decided to write to you for Herbs. Your Herb treatment is indeed wonderful. When I had finished taking a four-week supply of the herbs, all my pain had left me.

You deserve unstinted praise for what you have done for me. I shall continue to take the herbs until I am certain that I have completely recovered and am sound and healthy in every respect.

Yours very truly,

Plans for an addition of one floor to the present Persico building at Sixteenth street and Macdonald avenue will be ready for bids within one week, according to an announcement made by Leo Persico, local realtor yesterday.
